Glossary

Janma (Birth star - your own): Sensitive to body and health. Neither lucky nor unlucky, but a day to avoid strain, risk and overexertion; keep to rest and routine.

Sampat (Wealth): Prosperity and gain. Highly auspicious for money matters, purchases, new ventures and anything you want to grow.

Vipat (Danger / loss): Obstacles, loss and accident. Do not begin new work, travel or signings; postpone the important.

Kshema (Well-being): Security and health. Auspicious and safe - good for health, savings, steady work and protective acts.

Pratyak (Opposition): Resistance and hidden enemies. Effort meets friction; avoid confrontation, competition and launches.

Sadhaka (Accomplishment): Achievement and completion. What you start now tends to finish - ideal for goals and important tasks.

Vadha (Destruction - the harshest): Harm and danger. Strictly avoid all auspicious work, travel and ventures; take extra care with health and conflict.

Mitra (Friend): Friendly support and goodwill. Good for meetings, alliances, negotiations and seeking help.

Ati-Mitra (Great friend - the strongest): The most auspicious star of all - the best time for anything that truly matters.

Janma nakshatra: The star the Moon sat in at your birth. All nine taras are counted from it.

Nakshatra: One of the 27 lunar stars. Each star spans 13 degrees 20 minutes of the zodiac.

Pada: A quarter of a star. Each star has four padas of 3 degrees 20 minutes.

Star lord: The planet that owns the star a body sits in. It colours the result.

Cycle: The 27 stars hold three rounds of nine taras. Cycle 1 is closest, cycle 3 is mildest.

Benefic: A planet that tends to give ease and growth.

Malefic: A planet that tends to give pressure and delay.

Retrograde: The planet looks like it moves backwards. Results come slowly and often return.

Net score: Favourable taras add points and hard taras take them away. A plus score is a good window.

Tarpana: A simple water offering made to ancestors, usually at sunrise.

Japa: Quiet repeating of a mantra, counted on beads.

Daana: Charity given without asking for return, such as food or cloth.

Vrata: A short vow, often a light fast on a chosen weekday.

Abhisheka: A gentle bathing of a deity image with water, milk or honey.

Muhurta: A chosen hour that suits the work you plan to start.
