This report applies the traditional rules of Medini Jyotish mechanically. Astrology, including mundane astrology, has no demonstrated ability to predict wars, epidemics or earthquakes, and nothing here should guide safety, emergency or financial decisions. Foundation times for many countries are disputed; where the time is uncertain, house readings are the least reliable part.

The king of the year is the lord of the weekday on Chaitra Shukla Pratipada, and the minister is the lord of the weekday of Mesha Sankranti. The Ardra Pravesh chart, cast when the Sun enters Ardra, is read for the monsoon.

Panchangs differ in how the lesser officers of the year are fixed; the king and minister rules are the most widely shared. Samvatsara names follow the luni-solar cycle used in South and West India; many North Indian panchangs use the Jupiter-based (Barhaspatya) count, so the year name there can differ. Officers are computed for the selected city.

Varuna: associated with heavy rain, floods and trouble near rivers and coasts.

Nakshatras: Revati, Purvashadha, Ardra, Ashlesha, Mula, Uttara Bhadrapada, Shatabhisha.

Brihat Samhita ch. 32. No astrological method has been shown to predict earthquakes; treat these as traditional watch-dates, not forecasts.

Kurma Chakra: regions under affliction

Varahamihira lays the land out as a tortoise, giving three nakshatras to the centre and to each of the eight directions. Regions whose nakshatras hold eclipses, Saturn, Mars or the nodes during the period are marked.

North-west Uttarashadha, Shravana, Dhanishta Solar eclipse 6 Feb 2027; Lunar eclipse 18 Jul 2027; Lunar eclipse 17 Aug 2027; Rahu in Dhanishta; Rahu in Shravana	North Shatabhisha, Purva Bhadrapada, Uttara Bhadrapada Saturn in Uttara Bhadrapada	North-east Revati, Ashwini, Bharani Saturn in Revati; Saturn in Ashwini
West Jyeshtha, Mula, Purvashadha Mars in Jyeshtha; Mars in Mula; Mars in Purvashadha	Centre (Madhyadesha) Krittika, Rohini, Mrigashira quiet	East Ardra, Punarvasu, Pushya Solar eclipse 2 Aug 2027; Ketu in Pushya; Mars in Pushya
South-west Swati, Vishakha, Anuradha Mars in Swati; Mars in Vishakha; Mars in Anuradha	South Uttara Phalguni, Hasta, Chitra Mars in Uttara Phalguni; Mars in Hasta; Mars in Chitra	South-east Ashlesha, Magha, Purva Phalguni Lunar eclipse 21 Feb 2027; Ketu in Magha; Ketu in Ashlesha; Mars in Ashlesha; Mars in Magha

For India the regions map roughly to: Centre (Madhyadesha) — Ganga–Yamuna doab, Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh; East — Bengal, Bihar, Odisha, Assam; South-east — Coastal Andhra, Odisha coast, Chhattisgarh; South — Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Karnataka, Sri Lanka; South-west — Konkan, Goa, coastal Karnataka, Maharashtra; West — Gujarat, Rajasthan, Sindh; North-west — Punjab, Haryana, Pakistan, Afghanistan; North — Kashmir, Himachal, Uttarakhand, Himalaya; North-east — Sikkim, Northeast states, Tibet, Nepal east. For other countries read the directions from the centre of the country.

What Medini Jyotish covers

Medini (from मेदिनी, the earth) Jyotish is the branch of the Samhita skandha of Vedic astrology that judges the fortunes of countries, rulers, crops, weather and the public rather than of individuals.

Classical sources

Varahamihira's Brihat Samhita (6th century) is the central text, with chapters on the Sun, Moon, Rahu, each planet's course, eclipses, planetary war, comets, rainfall, earthquakes, omens and the division of lands. Others include the Bhadrabahu Samhita, the Garga Samhita quoted by commentators, Narada Samhita, Vasishtha Samhita, the regional rain lore of Ghagh and Bhaddari, and modern compilations by authors such as B. V. Raman and others on mundane astrology.

Foundation charts

A nation, state or city is judged from its moment of founding: independence, a new constitution, statehood or the laying of a foundation. Houses take mundane meanings — the 1st the people, 4th the land and masses, 7th war and treaties, 8th disasters, 10th the government. Vimshottari dashas from the national Moon time the chapters of a nation's life.

Year charts and the cabinet of the year

Mesha Sankranti (solar new year) and Chaitra Shukla Pratipada (lunar new year) charts are cast for the capital. The weekday lords of these and other Sankrantis become the king, minister, commander and lords of crops, grain and clouds for the year, a scheme still printed in every panchang.

Samvatsara

The 60-year cycle tied to Jupiter. Each year has a name (Prabhava, Vibhava...) and a traditional character for rain, crops and peace.

Eclipses (Rahu-chara)

Effects depend on the sign, nakshatra, lunar month, part of the disc eclipsed, colour, direction of first contact, and visibility. Two eclipses in one fortnight-pair are an ancient warning sign.

Graha-yuddha and graha-chara

Planetary war (two planets within a degree), retrogression, combustion, and the course of each planet through the nakshatras — for example Saturn or Mars passing

Rohini — are read for war, drought and famine.

Natural calamities

Earthquakes are classed into four mandalas by the nakshatra at the time (Brihat Samhita ch. 32). Rainfall is forecast through garbha-lakshana (the conception of clouds), Ardra Pravesh, the lord of clouds and the Rohini yoga. Floods, drought, storms and fires are read from element, eclipse and malefic combinations.

Epidemics and famine

Saturn and Rahu together, afflicted Moon and Jupiter, eclipses in certain months and malefics in Rohini or the 8th house of year charts are traditional indications of disease and scarcity.

War and politics

Mars-Saturn combinations, planetary war, eclipses on the 10th or 7th houses of national charts, and malefic dashas of national charts are used for conflict, coups and changes of government.

Kurma Chakra and Sarvatobhadra Chakra

The Kurma Chakra assigns regions to nakshatras so that afflictions can be located geographically. The Sarvatobhadra Chakra relates nakshatras, letters, tithis and directions, and is used for markets and regional events.

Omens and comets

The Samhitas include chapters on comets (Ketu-chara), halos, meteors, unusual births, and portents in nature. These are recorded here for completeness but cannot be computed.

Markets (Teji-Mandi)

A later branch reads commodity prices from Sankrantis, nakshatra transits and planetary aspects.

What this app calculates

Foundation chart, dashas, Samvatsara, Mesha Sankranti and Ardra Pravesh charts with the officers of the year, all eclipses with visibility, mandala and Kurma region, ingresses of slow planets, retrograde periods, planetary war, Mars-Saturn links, nodal conjunctions, stelliums, Kala Sarpa, Rohini transits, debilitations, sensitive syzygies, short fortnights, and a monthly intensity timeline. Omens, comets and garbha-lakshana need observation and are described but not computed.

This report applies the traditional rules of Medini Jyotish mechanically. Astrology, including mundane astrology, has no demonstrated ability to predict wars, epidemics or earthquakes, and nothing here should guide safety, emergency or financial decisions. Foundation times for many countries are disputed; where the time is uncertain, house readings are the least reliable part.
